

Downtown Historic District Design Guidelines

Worksheet #2 Individual

In this activity, consider properties outside the downtown historic district: A range of properties exists in the City of Sausalito that are recognized as having characteristics which contribute to the character of the community and enhance its quality of life. Some of these are officially designated by the city as historic properties, while others may not be so formally listed but still have historic value. In this activity, please help to identify some of the key resource types that exist and note some of the issues that should be addressed in the design guidelines project.

1. Property types

Residences, commercial buildings and civic structures are among the resources that exist in the city. Some date from the earliest history of the community, while others are more recent. List three property types that are found in the city which are important to the heritage of the community.

2. Goals

In considering the types of properties identified as having historical value, what are your goals for their treatment? Please list three goals:

3. Issues

With properties of value in mind, along with the goals for their treatment, what are some of the issues relate to potential improvements to these properties that should be addressed in the design guidelines? Please list three issues:
